

4. Essay.

Modern world, the world that we live in is the result of the changes, events, differences that had been happening until the world that we know was created. Modern world, though it brought a lot of new things, in ~~lot of~~ many ways has been stable for a long time. Can we make a difference in the modern world?

Answering this question, I want you to know what is "to make a difference" in my opinion. I believe that making a difference should happen right in the core of the system we want to change. It can be society or political situation or something else. We can take a look at a lot of examples when people tried to make differences in different systems here. But their problem was that they tried to fight the consequences, not the persons. Tried to make a difference in the space, not in the core. And we can make a difference but only if we have better leaders that will lead us and only if we are able to understand how differences in the modern world should be made. But I don't think that it will happen soon.

So, as you can see through the stream of my thoughts, there is a possibility that we can make a difference in the modern world but only if we are able to made it the right way. That is all I wanted to say.
