All modern Pets are descended from wild ancestors. People tamed them for a specific purpose: for meat, milk, wool, down, used as a vehicle, for protection, etc.

Now many of the Pets do not bring any material benefit (mongrel cats, hamsters, Guinea pigs, parrots, aquarium fish, mice and rats), but people still bring them to your home. People are interested in playing with their Pets, watching their behavior. For example, cats help their owner to calm down - one has only to stroke his furry friend, look into his devoted eyes, as all the problems fade into the background. Owners of the dog spend a lot of time on the street. The dog needs to walk at least twice a day.

However, the term "Pets" means not only dogs or cats, but also Pets that bring material benefit. People living in villages keep chickens, cows, goats, geese, pigs, and sheep. From them masters receive milk, wool, meat, eggs, and fluff. Care and responsibility make a person's life organized, do not let him be lazy.
