4. I think the best place I've ever been is Kheronesos. As far as I know it was founded by Greek colonists in sixteenth century B.C.

In nine and eighty eight Prince Vladimir was baptised on the territory of this ancient city. Also this place is famous for being a battlefield of Crimean war.

Now it's a tourist object and a very famous historical center. I remember my first visit to the Kheronesos. I was greatly impressed by ancient constructions. I was walking about the city. I saw walls, temples. Also there is the cathedral of Saint Prince Vladimir. I liked this building very much it was full of religious dignity. The cathedral was designed in Byzantium style. Not far from this place there is the bell of Saint Nicholas. I enjoyed the view on the sea. I was standing on the edge of the seashore. The sea was blue. At the distance I could see the sun, there were several navy ships as well. They had drills.

I descended to the beach. The pebbles were very hot in the sun. I touched the sea itself

After my trip to the Kheronesos I started understand the ancient Greeks' choice of place for the colony. They were sailing along the seashore and were admiring by this landscape.
